Vice Presidents' Address

UQBA Members,

As we kick things off in the new year, it is my pleasure to present the 2024 UQBA Careers Guide. Whether you are beginning your university experience, or are closing in upon graduation, the Careers Guide will provide invaluable information on how to secure and make the most of an internship or graduate experience. As the incoming Vice-President of Careers and Competitions, I'd like to thank my predecessors Jack Lambert and Jack Henry for their incredible work in establishing this initiative. I look forward to seeing it evolve in years to come.

For 24 years, UQBA's goal has been to actively facilitate professional development of the University of Queensland students. We aim to create a dynamic environment that facilitates growth of employability skills and the creation of life-long friendships and professional networks. Across social activities, professional events and workshops, UQBA allows you to apply your knowledge and share your experiences, while developing invaluable connections with alumni, industry professionals and peers. We believe these relationships are essential to success in the business world.

Equally, we believe in the importance of industry experience. This guide is a mechanism to help you attain it. It will walk you through who our corporate partners are and who they are looking for to ensure you are travelling in the right direction.

This year, we encourage you to take full advantage of UQBA's resources. We hope our action-packed year – networking at Professional Pathways, competing in case competitions and attending social drinks – helps bolster your professional development. Investing in yourself now, securing work experience you want and building your networks will set you up for future success.

Best of luck for 2024.

Yours sincerely,

Oliver Cathcart – Vice President of Careers and Competitions
